This, briefly, is how Ali, the cousin of the Prophet (PBUH) and then a boy of only ten, accepted the truth. Allah taught Muhammad (PBUH) through angel Jibra'il how to make ablution and how to pray. Muhammad in turn taught Khadijah and both of them used to offer Salah together.

Ali saw the Prophet (PBUH) and his wife kneeling and prostrating and reciting the Quran. Ali was amazed at this unusual scene and asked the Prophet (PBUH) after the prayer, "To whom did you prostrate yourselves?" The Prophet (PBUH) answered, "We have prostrated ourselves to Allah who has sent me as a Prophet and has commanded me to call human beings unto Him."

The Prophet (PBUH) then invited Ali to worship only Allah and to accept the message of Allah revealed to him.

He also recited to him some verses from the Quran. Ali felt excited and thrilled but thought for a moment and said he would consult his father Abu Talib about this. He passed the night agitated and restless, thinking about the call of Muhammad (PBUH). Next morning, he rushed to the Prophet and declared his faith in Islam. The young boy said, "Allah created me without consulting Abu Talib, my father. Why then should I consult him in order to worship Allah?"

The story of young Ali should inspire and motivate young people to work for Islam to make living on this earth meaningful and purposeful. Rest Assured, this is the way to peace and happiness.
